FOR WHOM IS THE E- LEARNING DESIGNED?

The Insider Risk Introduction E-Learning caters to all employee groups within an organisation, serving as a valuable resource for employees and managers alike. This e-learning experience promotes a security-conscious culture, empowering everyone to contribute to identifying and addressing concerning behaviours and potential insider threats.

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN?

- Gain essential insights and skills to safeguard your organisation from insider threats
- Learn to recognise leading indicators of insider risk
- Prevent potential malicious insiders from derailing
- Detect early warning signals of insider acts
- Improve adequate responses by employees, managers, and the organisation as a whole

In today's rapidly evolving business landscape, it's crucial for both managers and employees to be well-versed in recognising and responding to insider risks. Our 25-minute Insider Risk Introduction e-learning, based on the Critical Pathway to Insider Risk (CPIR) methodology by Shaw and Sellers (2015), provides essential insights into the leading indicators of insider risk. Developed from a review of over 1,500 insider risk cases, the CPIR methodology represents the best practice for understanding and mitigating insider threats. By completing this e-learning, you will be better equipped to identify concerning behaviours early on and take appropriate action to safeguard your organisation.

What to Expect from the E-Learning

- Follow an example case and explore the factors that led to the insider act
- Gain insights into the case and the theory behind it for practical application
